LAVISH LIMESTONE

The design of this Midtown penthouse with amazing floor-to-ceiling windows was all about light. But when faced with an interior space with no natural radiance, Diane Paparo of Diane Paparo Associates, New York, had a simple solution. "I made it the darkest room," she says. With chiseled-face limestone walls and ebonized mahogany wood panels, the designer gave her clients something unique. And the glow of the fire-red gemstone sconce provides just enough illumination to highlight the materials. ☐
